This really worked for me...	Please consider the following...
	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Separating Principal's coffee and Coordinator's meeting• Soliciting discussion points from parents like me with school info, where I want Center issue addressed (there are very few Center specific meetings)

Ice breaker was nice Discipline data was helpful	The discussion taking over the agenda and not reaching all of the items- like the budget updates Want ask about consistent difference between record on Edline and on Grade Book record of teacher

BREAKFAST MEETING EVALUATION

January 11, 2011

This really worked for me...	Please consider the following...
I always find these meetings informative, and I am repeatedly impressed by Ms. Barkley's attitude candor and efforts. Doug always is well prepared, and I appreciate all of the informative hand-outs.

This really worked for me...	Please consider the following...
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Willingness to answer all questions and concerns (honestly) • Candidness of Khadija! • Doug in answering questions- not just repeating MCPS party line 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • More Communication! I had no idea the mtg. was somewhere other than RCMS till a Center parent posted on the Listserv. Even then, the parent could not get good directions & address for Cin. Woods Comm. Center. I drove around 10 min. before I found it. • I miss the Center updates, regular communication form the coordinator... • I feel that we (Center parents) are not a priority with the Center Coordinator. It feels that Doug is spending time on other school issues, not Center issues. • I still don't like the combined Center/Coordinator/Principal Breakfasts. Since only Center parents show up at these meetings, they should be targeted at the issues that are important to that audience.
