COLLEGE-READY STUDENTS

In January Sarah Costlow arranged for the APPS seniors to be treated to a presentation by Dr. Corey Campion of Shepherd University. Dr. Campion is a historian of modern Europe with a specialty in French and German history. He was a GWU DAAD Research Ambassador and an Adjunct Professor at Georgetown University.

Dr. Campion spoke about the academic and social differences between college and high school. The students took this opportunity to engage him with discussions on many college topics, such as scholarships, dorm life, study habits, course selection, and exams. Dr. Campion highly stressed the importance of regular communications by students with their instructors as a key to success at the college level.
