

AOF Mission

The National Academy of Finance (NAF) is a college-preparatory program. Its mission is to encourage high school students to take courses in financial studies and related disciplines. By doing so, students gain valuable knowledge to prepare for meaningful careers in business and to build personal wealth. The Academy of Finance (AOF) is one of the four member programs sponsored by the National Academy Foundation (AOF, AOIT, AOHT, AOE). It is a small learning community that offers high school students an opportunity to study accounting, international trade, leadership, and the use of technology in preparing for college and the financial services industry.

Who can join the National Academy of Finance?

Students at Northwest High School in grades 9, 10, and 11 (if possible) may become a member of AOF.

The National Academy of Finance and Montgomery County Public Schools have designed a relevant curriculum that supports a learning climate for preparing students for a career in financial fields while completing their normal high school course requirements. The program is designed to ignite students' passion for learning and gives businesses the opportunity to shape America's future workforce by transforming the learning environment to include industry-specific curricula and work-based learning experiences.
