

DHS Boys Lacrosse 2009

Coaches' Credo

- Winning is important, but character-building and making men out of boys is more important.
- Our success as coaches should be measured by more than our Won/Lost record. We will also judge our own performance by:
 - How many of the players go on to play lacrosse in college
 - How many of the players we help individually with their college or other future plans
 - How excited we get our players about the game of lacrosse
 - How much fun they have playing lacrosse for Damascus High School
 - The memories we create for them
- We will treat each and every player with respect – this is one of the most essential of all life lessons.
- We will not yell at them or demean them, but we will insist on focus and effort while they are on the field. All we ask is that they listen:

“Give me your eyes and I’ll give you everything I have.”
- Above all else, we will have fun and your sons will be better young men when the season is over – that is my commitment to you as the parents.
