

For Kids - Searching for Images Online

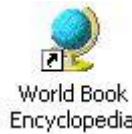

Clip art from Office

Do you need an image or picture to include in your project? Try these steps for safer searching on the Internet!

1. Did you check Microsoft Office Clipart? Clip art from Office Online
2. Check our Online Resources – There are images with almost everyone and they tell you how to cite the image as well.

3. www.pics4learning.com
Pics4learning is a site for “copyright-friendly images for education.”
4. <http://memory.loc.gov/ammem/index.html>
The Library of Congress has wonderful primary resources for students to use. Although it is on a government website, you should still cite your source.
5. <http://www.archives.gov/research/arc/>
The National Archives is a continually growing bank of digital resources. It is a government website, but as a courtesy, please site your source.
