Re: PUBLIC COMMENTS

There were no public comments.

Re: BOARD/SUPERINTENDENT COMMENTS

Dr. Docca commented that the first week of school was successful, and she thanked all staff for their hard work and dedication. She mentioned the following events: (1) two successful students were profiled in the POST; (2) African Heritage Month celebration; (3) NAACP Parents' Council; (4) there is a book written by Carole Goodman and Christopher Berry, Great Assistant Principals and the (Great) Principals Who Mentor Them: A Practical Guide; (5) many schools translate their newsletters; (6) the Damascus High School band provide great music in the parade; (7) Ms. Flores won a contest by Team SOS and cast for a video; and (8) Flag Day at John T. Baker Middle School.

Ms. Berthiaume encouraged the community to attend the Community Roundtable discussion on October 13 and 28, 2010.

Mrs. O'Neill thanked the building service workers during the elections for helping with the Board of Elections and making sure the schools were open and clean.

Mr. Bowers commented that students in the MCPS Class of 2010 set an all-time record on the SAT, far outranking the state and the nation. In 2010, MCPS graduating seniors earned a mean score of 1653 on the SAT, the highest composite score in the district since the SAT exam was redesigned five years ago to add a writing subtest. That score represents an increase of 38 points over the Class of 2009. Two highly respected national organizations on early childhood education—the Foundation for Child Development and Pre-K Now, a campaign of the Pew Center on the States—released a report late last month that details how MCPS created its high-quality early childhood and prekindergarten programs.

Dr. Lacey reported that more than 12,000 parents, students, and community members attended the third annual MCPS Back-to-School Fair on August 28, the largest crowd ever. The Department of Family and Community Partnerships gave away about 5,200 backpacks and bags filled with school supplies to families in need. More than 200 MCPS employees participated in the Back-to-School Fair.

Mr. Bowers stated that 157 MCPS seniors have been selected as semifinalists for the prestigious National Achievement Scholarship competition. The number of semifinalists is up by eight students from last year. The seniors come from 16 MCPS high schools. Winners of the $2,500 scholarships will be announced in the spring.

Re: ORAL UPDATE ON THE OPENING OF SCHOOLS

Mr. Larry Bowers, chief operating officer, and Dr. Frieda Lacy, deputy superintendent of schools, commented on the beginning of school. More than 144,000 students reported for the first day of school, about 2,200 more than the previous year. Students at six schools returned to brand-new or dramatically renovated buildings. As part of MCPS' ongoing efforts to promote good nutrition choices for students, school cafeterias began posting signs that feature caloric information about food items. Three principals were present to offer their perspectives on the opening of school and the readiness of staff and students.

The Board received an update on the August 30 opening of schools, which was a success. Enrollment of 144,000 students was higher than expected. Administrators, teachers, and central office staff have made adjustments to balance out class sizes and bus assignments. Principals from three MCPS schools reported on smooth openings at their campuses and commended the work of their building services staff, teachers, school-based support staff, and central office administrators for contributing to such a successful opening. There was a short video on the opening of school that featured many excited students and teachers beginning instruction.

Board members commented on the following points:

1. the opening was very smooth;
2. there is a need for flexibility since the economics are dire;
3. oversized classes; and
4. foreign language and multi-levels of instruction.

Re: LUNCH AND CLOSED SESSION

The Board of Education recessed from 11:30 to 1:00 for lunch and closed session.

Re: UPDATE ON PREKINDERGARTEN
SPECIAL EDUCATION

Mr. Bowers invited the following people to the table: Mrs. Chrisandra A. Richardson, associate superintendent, Office of Special Education and Student Services; Mrs. Felicia Piacente, director, Division of Prekindergarten, Special Programs, and Related Services; Mrs. Deann M. Collins, principal, Montgomery Knolls Elementary School; Mrs. Kathryn S. Rupp, principal, Fields Road Elementary School; Ms. Robin Williams Evans, parent; and Mr. Wayne Evans, parent.

Board members received a report on prekindergarten (pre-K) special education. Montgomery County Public Schools (MCPS) believes that parents are a child's first teachers and play a critical role in their child's education. This connection is particularly important during the infant, toddler, and preschool years. Staff members in the Division of Prekindergarten, Special Programs, and Related Services in the Office of Special Education and Student Services realize the importance of a family's first contact with the school system and start early to build partnerships and positive relationships with them. For children, enrollment in early childhood education programs represents the beginning of their educational experiences. A positive start can have a favorable impact on their educational future.

MCPS continues to successfully respond to the increasing needs and the growing number of students, ages birth through 5, who qualify for special education services. In Fiscal Year (FY) 2010, 4,417 students with disabilities or developmental delays received support through an Individual Family Services Plan (IFSP) with the Montgomery County Infants and Toddlers Program, or through an Individualized Education Program (IEP) in a prekindergarten (pre-K) special education program. In FY 2006, MCPS served 3,460 children from birth to age 5, representing an increase in the number of students served of more than 27 percent in five years. Attachment A illustrates the growth in the number of students receiving services through both programs.

Providing a continuum of special education services at the pre-K level aligns with the MCPS strategic plan, Our Call to Action: Pursuit of Excellence, Goal 1, Ensure Success for Every Student. The strategic plan also states that "MCPS is committed to providing students with disabilities access to the general education environment to the maximum extent appropriate." This commitment is supported by two major pieces of federal legislation that drive the delivery of special education services—the Individuals with Disabilities Education Improvement Act of 2004 (and the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, known as the No Child Left Behind Act of 2001).

Programs and services for preschoolers are based on the premise that early intervention is effective in helping children achieve developmental milestones and/or offsetting the impact of educational disabilities on young children. Program activities promote growth in the essential learning domains of communication, exploration, movement, play, and socialization. In MCPS, most pre-K special education services are delivered in early childhood special education settings, providing high-quality instructional programs for children with disabilities.

The goal of early intervention is to provide our youngest learners the support they need to succeed in kindergarten and beyond. In response to increased rigor in the curriculum, MCPS supported the needs of a growing population by increasing inclusive opportunities along a continuum of special education services for 3- and 4-year-olds with disabilities. Least Restrictive Environment (LRE) mandates in IDEA state that “to the maximum extent appropriate,” children with disabilities must be “educated with children who are not disabled.” The report provided the Board of Education information about early intervention services in the Infants and Toddlers Program, and the array of preschool special education services available to better prepare young learners for success in school.

All kindergarten students in Maryland participate in the Maryland Model for School Readiness (MMSR) assessment each fall. This assessment tool measures whether students are entering kindergarten ready to learn by evaluating students in the areas of social/personal development, language/literacy acquisition, mathematical thinking, scientific thinking, social studies, arts, and physical development. The FY 2010 Maryland State Department of Education report (Attachment B) reveals that kindergartners receiving special education services made the greatest increase of any NCLB subgroup in MCPS on the MMSR, moving from 22 percent “fully ready” in FY 2002 to 44 percent “fully ready” in FY 2010.

According to the MCPS Program Budget FY 2011, June 2010, the budget for Infants and Toddlers is $20,412,861, and the budget for pre-K special education is $28,585,601. Given the limited federal funds available to support these programs, the FY 2012 budget process will include a complete review of expenditures and anticipated growth.

MCPS is committed to high-quality early intervention services and to forming relationships and partnerships with families. A continuum of inclusive opportunities and rigorous pre-K instruction will lead to positive educational results for children and families, now and in the future. During 2009–2010, MCPS served 44.1 percent of 3- through 5-year-old students with disabilities in a regular early childhood setting greater than 80 percent of the time, ranking 18th out of 24 jurisdictions statewide.

To that end, the Office of Special Education and Student Services will work with the Office of Curriculum and Instructional Programs and stakeholders to examine how and where MCPS delivers pre-K special education services and work to increase inclusive opportunities for students. MCPS must continue to move in this direction in order to ensure that the school system is in compliance with federal and state mandates. Should additional PEP classes be needed, appropriate locations will be explored for the 2010–2011 and 2011–2012 school years. In response to enrollment growth and recent guidance from MSDE regarding the provision of services in the LRE, MCPS continues to examine services to ensure that all students receive the supports that they need to be successful.

Re: DISCUSSION

Mrs. O'Neill thanked those who presented the program as well as the parents for sharing their story about their son.

Ms. Brandman asked about the reference that there is a choice for parents between staying in the infant program or exiting the program and determining if their child is eligible for pre-K special education services. What are the consequences? Staff replied that in the past as children approach age 3, they automatically exit the Infants and Toddler Program, and it is determined if they are eligible for pre-K special education services. Effective February 1, IF {???SOMETHING IS MISSING HERE} there is still the special education eligibility, then parents can remain extended IFSP or IEP, which family's choice. Once the family chooses the IEP process, they cannot return to IFSP.

Ms. Brandman asked staff to clarify the consequences of that choice. Staff replied that the natural environment for the IFSP is the home, play group, etc. The prekindergarten special education looks like small group instruction at a school. The services may be similar, but the setting is different by family choice and preference. The Maryland State Department of Education (MSDE) received a grant to pilot the program which ends June 30, 2011. Staff is waiting for additional information from MSDE.

Ms. Brandman inquired about information in the paper that described Maryland model for school readiness. This is how MCPS assesses students who come through the PEP [SPELL OUT ACRONYM?] program and are ready for the next step. Does MCPS assess students in all of the PEP programs on the same standard, irrespective which program they are in? Staff responded that the Maryland Model for School Readiness is given to all kindergarten students in the early school year. The report indicates whether students are fully ready or approaching readiness. MCPS is interested in the special education subgroup because it points successful completion of prekindergarten programs.

Ms. Brandman asked if MCPS has the ability for its students in various PEP programs to go back after they have been assessed at kindergarten. Staff replied that MCPS does have that capacity to look at each group. Students are tracked from prekindergarten and what the recommendation was for kindergarten.

Ms. Brandman noted that in the paper there is a chart on the percent of students exiting who are recommended for kindergarten services in a general education environment in their home school. What does MCPS glean from that data? Staff thought that there are more children with more intensive need across multiple developmental domains.

Ms. Brandman thought there is a need for more supportive programs if the students are not ready for kindergarten. Staff thought that was true seeing growth and the number of classes for students with autism.

Ms. Brandman asked the parents about their experiences. She noted that MCPS programs support parents. She asked what their experience was and if there are things MCPS should explore in terms of parental support. The parents thought that Infants and Toddlers Program developed great relationships that continue to help them. Also, there was excellent feedback every time they meet with the child, and details on the follow-up needed by the program and parents. This has continued with the prekindergarten program through emailing and talking, with feedback from home/school, communication with the nurse and the nurse tech, and contact with the daycare through the Arc of Montgomery County. The parents stated that they are well supported through the county.

Ms. Berthiaume had two questions: (1) as MCPS plans for facilities, what projections are there increased growth; is MCPS able to project five years from now how many children are expected on the autism spectrum, and how many on the various ends of the autism spectrum; and (2) is MCPS participating in any studies with any organizations such as NIH, Department of Education, or Centers for Disease Control to work together collaboratively to understand to causes of autism. Staff commented that they are not aware of MCPS participating in studies. If an organization wants to work with MCPS, it is through Shared Accountability. Second, there are outstanding medical facilities and support for infants and toddlers, along with Child Find, that help identify students at a younger age, which helps in long-range facilities planning. Staff meets with facilities planners every month in order to identify where there are needs for classes and schools. There is a lot of work with facilities and staffing.

Mrs. O'Neill noted that the paper states that MCPS is 18th out of 24 jurisdictions in inclusive education for prekindergarten. Staff noted that the state send out consensus data that show LRE for preschool programs across all environments defined for young children. There are 11 school districts with no children in private school systems. MCPS ranked 18th when looking at LRE students receiving service at 80 percent of the time.

Ms. Berthiaume noted that there are a number of rural counties in Maryland with only one high school. Second, people move to MCPS with severely disabled students, thereby increasing our relative population compared to some places such as Allegany or Garrett counties. Staff replied that it is true, but MCPS tries to compare itself with larger counties, such as Baltimore or Prince George's.

Mrs. O'Neill asked about the stakeholder group projecting forward what types of programs are needed and engaging the community. She noted that prekindergarten special education for economical disadvantaged kids is very important. Staff stated that the goal is to set it up with a project team approach with a charge statement, identify stakeholders, and identify a set of deliverables and recommendations. Clearly MCPS needs to continue to offer a range of services for students. Also, staff needs to look at those locations that have existing programs, like at Montgomery Knolls Elementary School, and support inclusion in the building. Is there space available to support special education prekindergarten programs to expand those classes?

Mrs. O'Neill wanted to know if MCPS has the flexibility to respond. If a class is expecting to have six students, does staff make accommodations in the real world for more students? Staff noted that there is always need for a variety of classes because students come in as they turn 3, not with a cutoff date. To add another class of students with emotional disability, staff needs a reserve and to work with principals and program staff. Children move and are identified along the way, and MCPS identifies the need, looking and working through other offices.
