Coordinator Clements's Comments

It is hard to believe that the school year is almost over. We had one final guest speaker of the year, Lieutenant Commander Harun Lucas shared his experiences in the military medical field. If you heard from him, I hope you collected some wisdom from what he shared. I will remember that he said "when studying something you should learn it with the intention to teach it."

I hope that everyone can feel the winding down process begin as we let go of the stress and anxiety of exams and projects and start to think upon summer and pursuing our own unique learning goals.

I would encourage you to set a learning goal for yourself; maybe it is learning to drive, reading more books, or playing a musical instrument. We need to use our brains so we don't lose our skills and talents.

SUMMER VACATION!
