Summary of Supports

Thriving Germantown: is a wide ranging multi-generational, multi-tiered case management and care coordination program developed to reduce the impact of poverty for families living in the Germantown area, with emphasis on the community of Cpt. James Daly Elementary School. Thriving Germantown uses an approach that builds partnerships to create a broad, integrated process for meeting children and their families' multiple needs in a cross-system, collaborative way.

Behavioral Health Partners: In a collaborative effort, Sheppard Pratt provides outpatient mental health supports.

Harmony (SEL): This a Social Emotional. Learning (SEL) curriculum that enables students to connect and collaborate with others at much deeper levels.

School Wellness Centers: These centers are committed to helping students, in the school community, reach their full potential by offering coordinated medical care, counseling, positive youth development and health education experiences in a confidential and culturally sensitive manner.

Conflict Resolution Center: Promote and provide collaborative problem-Oasliving processes throughout Montgomery County. They enable students and other community members having neighborhood or school community disputes to talk it out rather than fight it out, without the judicial system involvement. Conflict Resolution Center in Montgomery County has grown to include programs in the public schools, the district court, local correctional facilities, and more.

School Based Health Centers (SBHCs): Work with children and their families and offer a comprehensive range of medical health care, including preventive, sick care and mental health services in a familiar and family friendly environment. Each of the SBHCs is partnered with Linkages to Learning to offer these services. The medical health care component serves students enrolled in the schools as well as their uninsured siblings and Care for Kids children living within the school zip code.

JSSA: is a nonsectarian, nonprofit client-focused health, and social service agency that has been helping individuals and families across the Greater Washington metropolitan area meet emotional, social, and physical challenges for more than 120 years. JSSA serves and supports more than 31,000 individuals and families annually through a wide range of services including: counseling, educational, special needs services, in-home support, hospice and nursing care, and social services.

Sources of Strength: Is a best practice youth suicide prevention project designed to harness the power of peer social networks to change unhealthy norms and culture, ultimately preventing suicide, bullying, and substance abuse. The mission of Sources of Strength is to prevent suicide through increasing help-seeking behaviors and promoting connections between peers and caring adults.

School-Based ESOL Counselors (SBECs): Provide counseling to assist English Language Learners specifically at the High School level. They support and welcome students by focusing on academic achievement, career, and educational decision-making, in addition to personal and social development. They are assigned to a specific high school based on the demographic of English Language Learners and supports needed.

Kirwan: Schools funded by Senate Bill 1030: These schools are community schools: Montgomery County Public Schools (MCPS) has 16 schools that have been identified as community schools. These schools provide wrap-around services and promote academic achievement for historically marginalized communities.

Excel Beyond the Bell: This is a public-private partnership created by the Collaboration Council to inspire our youth to realize their full potential by offering safe, quality and accessible out-of-school time programs.

Kennedy Watkins Mill Cluster Projects: These are a joint effort between MCPS and Montgomery County officials focused on maintaining and increasing family stability for students whose families are in crisis or in need of multiple supports outside of the school system, so that students may continue to stay fully engaged in school.

Positive Youth Development: Is committed to creating a supportive, violence-free community for children, youth and families where young people are valued, treated with dignity and given opportunities to realize their full potential. The County and its partners are responding to the urgent need to reach out to support youth who are faced with challenges including gang involvement, poverty, and pressure to engage in risky behaviors.

School Community-based Youth Services: SCYS providers cover geographic areas to provide therapy services and mental health promotion and prevention services. Each provider has certain designated schools for which they provide 1-2 days of therapy services. Therapy services include individual and family therapy based on the needs of the client. Mental health promotion and prevention services include groups, psychoeducation about mental health and some case management to link clients/families to available community services. Recently, SCYS has added Therapeutic Recreation programming. This includes face to face activities, including mentoring, sports, arts, and other recreation activities based on the interests of the students. Though these are not therapy services, they are designed to address mental health issues such as depression, anxiety and isolation in youth.

Multidisciplinary Educational Training and Support (METS): The METS program is designed to meet the linguistic and academic needs of English language learners who have had limited or no previous schooling or significant schooling gaps due to interrupted or disrupted education.

Our Minds Matter: Is a student-led club model in which teens are trained and empowered to promote school-wide social connectedness, to encourage help-seeking behavior and to develop coping skills via youth-led activities.

Substance Use Prevention and Resiliency Education: MCPS first real diversion program seeks to replace removal discipline outcomes for first-time substance use and possession incidents in high schools with a student/caregiver learning program consisting of awareness and resiliency education.

Linkages to Learning: This is a community school partnership with an integrated focus on health, social services, community engagement and leadership to support student learning, strong families, and healthy communities. Linkages to Learning assists students and their families by providing or connecting them to services and resources that address the social, economic, health, and emotional issues that may interfere with student success. They assist whole school communities by bringing additional partners and resources into the school in order to offer a range of support and opportunities to students and families.

ESOL Transition Counselors (ETCs): Provide counseling services to English Language Learners in Pre-K through Grade 12. Counselors support students from a cross-cultural perspective so they can succeed academically and adjust to a new social and cultural environment while helping them stay meaningfully connected to their culture. The ETCs are a diverse team of professionals who provide counseling services district wide and are located in schools offering intensive English services.

DeBug: is a strategy for elementary students to handle conflict. It consists of the steps Decide to ignore, Exit and walk away, Be Friendly and use kind words, Use firm language, and Get adult support. lorem ipsum

Signs of Suicide Prevention Program (SOS): SOS Signs of Suicide teaches students how to identify signs of depression and suicide in themselves and their peers, while training school professionals, parents, and community members to recognize at-risk students and take appropriate action.

Parent Community Coordinators (PCCs): Help build and strengthen positive relationships with families and work collaboratively with school leaders, staff, and community organizations to develop and implement family engagement activities. They support families by guiding them through the school system, helping to build their ability to advocate for their student's academic success, especially those who may be facing language, cultural or economic barriers. The PCCs are a diverse team of professionals located in school communities most highly impacted by poverty.

Pupil Personnel Workers (PPW): Act as case managers for identified students, making program changes and monitoring progress. They collaborate with administrators, parents, counselors and teachers, and use knowledge of MCPS programs and community resources to determine interventions and placement for students. They recognize and value the role families play in the educational success of students and can help you with questions or concerns that may arise throughout the school year.

School Psychologists (PSYC): Ensure that every child learns in a safe, healthy and supportive environment.They are school-based mental health professionals trained in both psychology and education. Psychological services are available to all students.
