- Each year Google receives many entries in an art competition called “Doodle for Google.” A2: Participants are asked to create their own interpretation of the Google logo, and one student from each state is chosen as the state winner. NW very own Maggie Slaughter, is the winner for the entire state of Maryland. She will now compete with the other 49 state winners in a period of public voting that begins tomorrow. In addition to prizes for the national winner, the national winner’s school receives a $50,000 technology award! This is your chance to help Maggie become the national winner. Go to Doodle for google.cm and vote for Maggie. The voting starts today until June 7. Please support Maggie and vote every day.
